Terms and Conditions

This Catalog is intended solely for use by purchasers or potential purchasers of aftermarket automotive parts, equipment and supplies and related services from Affinia Group Inc. ("Customers"). If you are not a Customer, this notice applies to you:

© 2014 Affinia Group Inc. All rights reserved. No part of this Catalog may be reproduced or utilized in any format, by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, scanning, or recording in any information retrieval or storage system, without the prior written permission of Affinia Group Inc. In particular, without limiting the foregoing, no part of this Catalog may be incorporated into another work of any kind in any format that catalogs, lists, offers or specifies aftermarket automotive parts, equipment or supplies or related services not sold by Affinia Group Inc.

If you are a Customer, your use of this Catalog is subject to the following Customer Agreement:

By using this Catalog, you agree to be bound by this Agreement. If you do not wish to be bound by this Agreement, then do not use this Catalog, and do not reproduce, record or use any Content from this Catalog.

Content
All information in any medium or format furnished by Affinia herein, including text, images, data, graphics, links, captions, or other information (collectively, "Content") is owned by Affinia or our Content providers. All Content is protected by U.S. and international copyright laws. All rights not specifically granted under this Agreement are reserved to Affinia.

You may, subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement:

a) Use the Catalog for your internal use, solely to look up information related to aftermarket automotive parts, equipment or supplies or related services referenced in the website in the ordinary course of business;
b) Use the Catalog to investigate respond to inquiries from, or to provide quotations, purchase orders or invoices, to your customers; and
c) If necessary in relation to either a) or b) above and to directly facilitate the sale of Affinia's aftermarket automotive parts, equipment or supplies or related services, make a limited number of photocopies of one or more pages of this Catalog (but not all or substantially all of the Catalog).

You may not:

a) Deliver, provide access to, directly or indirectly, or otherwise make the Content available to any third parties;
b) Remove any copyright or other proprietary notices from the Catalog or any Content;
c) Reformat or extract data from the Catalog or any Content, or incorporate the Catalog or any Content in whole or in part into another work of any kind in any format, including, without limitation, any work that catalogs, lists, offers or specifies aftermarket automotive parts, equipment or supplies or related services not sold by Affinia Group Inc.

General

By using this Catalog, you acknowledge that you have read this Agreement, understand it and agree to be bound by its terms and conditions. You further agree that it supersedes any proposal or prior agreement, oral or written, and that it cannot be modified except by signed written agreement. If you do not comply with the terms and conditions above, this Agreement shall automatically terminate, and the notice above directed to non-Customers shall apply to you.

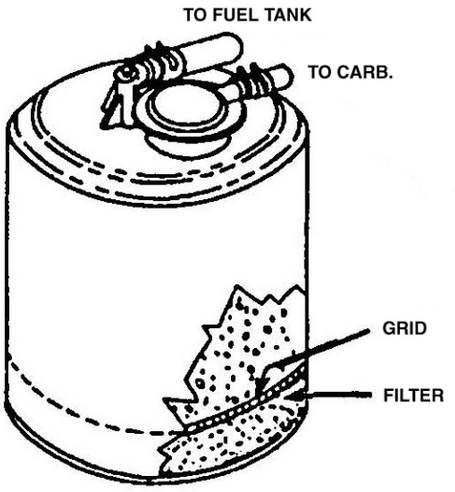
Carbon Canister Filters



Fuel Tank Ventilation Filters

When the engine is not in operation, a fuel tank vent line carries fuel vapors from the fuel tank to a carbon canister where the vapors are stored until the engine is started. Vapors are then drawn up into the carburetor and are burned in the normal combustion process.

The carbon canister is located in the engine compartment, ahead of the front wheel on the fender panel and opposite the battery location. The replaceable filter pad is located in the bottom of the carbon canister in the American Motors, Chrysler and GM family cars.

To change the filter pad, remove the canister from its mounting bracket, slide out the old filter and carefully insert the new pad in the base of the canister.

VIN Codes – Important Service Instructions

(Remember, be sure to check catalog before every filter change!)
Correct Engine and Filter Identification

In some domestic vehicles, there are two or more engines that are the same size but do not use the same products. In order to properly identify the correct product for your vehicle, you must first match the engine code from your vehicle identification number (VIN) with the character listed in our Application Section.

If your vehicle is a Chrysler, Ford or GM product manufactured from 1972-80, use the fifth character on the VIN plate. If it was manufactured from 1981-14, use the eighth character.

If your vehicle was manufactured by AMC/Eagle (except Jeep) from 1974-80, use the seventh character. From 1981-88, use the fifth character and from 1989-14, use the eighth character.

If your vehicle was manufactured by Jeep from 1972-74 (up to Serial Number 100000), use the eighth character. From 1974-80, use the seventh character, from 1981-88, use the fourth character and from 1989-14, use the eighth character.

Cross Reference Warning

Important: When a specific filter is not shown in the application guide for a specific automobile engine, it should be interpreted that we probably do not have a filter to fit. Any use of an interchange table to find a substitute is done at the installer's risk.

Technical Service Bulletins

The following Technical Service Bulletins (TSBs) are available from the Filter Manufacturers Council (FMC). The FMC represents the entire North American filtration industry. These TSBs represent the opinion of the filter industry, not an individual manufacturer. While some of these are printed in this catalog, to access the complete library, containing over 40 TSBs, please contact your local filter District Sales Manager or go to www.filtercouncil.org, click on the Related Sites tab, click on the FMC link and then click on the Technical Data tab.

Over-Pressurized Lube Oil Filters

From time to time every filter manufacturer has had a filter that has been severely over-pressurized returned from a customer. Often the deformed filter is the only sign the car owner has that a problem existed in their lube oil system.

It's possible that the damaged filter was not noticed until it was removed during the next scheduled oil change. However, if the pressure was sufficient to blow out the gasket or unroll the lock seam, the car owner may have experienced immediate and costly problems.

With the "evidence" in their hands, they tend to put the blame on the damaged filter. It's not surprising that they are more than a little aggravated when the filter manufacturer denies any responsibility for the damage. What, then, has caused the over-pressurization?

A look at how a lube oil system functions will show that oil pressure is created by the oil pump. The upper limit of this pressure is controlled by a pressure regulating valve, which is usually an integral part of the pump.

The pump supplies sufficient flow to lubricate the bearings and other moving parts of the engine. This oil must be under pressure if it is to properly separate the highly loaded parts of an engine and prevent excessive wear. The purpose of the regulating valve is to provide this pressure, which on most passenger cars is between 40 PSI (280kPa) and 60 PSI (410kPa).

The regulating valve is made up of a ball or plunger, which regulates pressure with the aid of a spring. The spring is calibrated so that the plunger will lift off its seat when the oil pressure reaches the desired amount. Once the valve is open, the pressure remains fairly constant with only small changes occurring as the engine speed varies.

The filter and all other components in the lube system are subjected to the pressure established by the regulating valve. If this pressure is excessive, filter damage may occur. This is the point that many people who are not familiar with lube systems fail to realize.

What can cause the pressure in the system to exceed the regulating valve setting? The answer is that either the valve must be stuck in the closed position or it is sluggish and slow to move to the open position after the engine has started.

Figure 2 shows the system operating with the regulating valve stuck in the shut position. Under these conditions the pressure builds up equally on all components in the system until something happens to relieve the pressure. If the regulating valve becomes unstuck, the pressure will return to normal.

Normal operating pressure causes no permanent deformation of the filter body. When the system pressure reaches 150 PSI (1,000 kPa) due to a faulty regulating valve, most filters become permanently deformed. At this pressure, the gasket usually will not blow out and the lock seam will remain sound.

If the regulating valve still remains stuck, the pressure will increase further and the gasket between the filter and the base can be blown out. This will probably cause the loss of all the oil in the system.

If the filter has been installed on the tight side, the gasket may not blow out and the lock seam will unwind as the pressure continues to rise.

The main point is that the deformed filter is not the cause of this excessive pressure, but the victim of a faulty regulating valve.

If the customer is alert and shuts the engine off at the first sign of trouble (red light on or reduced oil pressure), they can limit their loss to a tow job, oil change and new filter. If the vehicle continues to be driven, engine failure is probable.

The customer may ask if a plugged filter could have caused the over-pressurized condition. The answer is no; if the regulating valve is functioning properly, it will maintain the pressure on the filter at 40 PSI (280 kPa) or 60 PSI (410 kPa) even if the filter is plugged.

In summary, if a lube filter distorts due to excessive pressure in the system, the fault lies with the oil pump pressure regulating valve and not with the filter.

Low Engine Oil Pressure Problem

Insufficient oil pressure is serious, since the oiling system must be properly pressurized to keep the moving parts of the engine lubricated to prevent excessive wear. Most vehicles use a visual indicator, which may be a light or gauge, mounted in the instrument panel to alert the driver of low engine oil pressure.

The oil pressure indicator is connected with a pressure switch, as shown in Figure 1. The pressure switch sends a signal when the oil pressure is below 5 PSI (3.5 kPa). This pressure is established by the engine manufacturer based upon individual engine characteristics and requirements.

When the engine is not running and the ignition switch is turned on, the warning light illuminates. If the vehicle is equipped with a gauge there will be no indication of pressure. When the engine is started, oil pressure will compress the diaphragm in the pressure switch, opening the contacts and cause the light to go out or, in the case of a gauge, a positive pressure reading will be indicated. If the warning light remains on, or the gauge fails to register a normal pressure several seconds after start up, shut the engine off immediately. Check the oil level and fill as necessary.

If the warning light remains on or the gauge fails to register normally when the oil level is correct, there are a number of possibilities that may be the cause of the problem:

1. The oil pressure switch could be faulty.
2. The wiring between the oil pressure switch and warning indicator could be grounded or disconnected.
3. The oil pump may have lost its prime.
4. The oil pump intake screen could be clogged.
5. The oil pump pressure regulating valve could be stuck in the open position.

If the warning light does not illuminate with the ignition switch in the on/run position, and the engine is not running, then the bulb, pressure switch, and wiring should be checked and repaired as necessary.

On some engines the filter is mounted in a position which could allow the oil in the filter to drain back to the crankcase when the engine is shut down. This would be the case for the filter shown in Figure 2 where the filter is horizontal and is above the level of the oil in the crankcase. Normally, it takes less than five (5) seconds for the pump to fill the filter after the engine has been started, during which time the warning device will indicate no or low oil pressure.

Filters designed for these mounting positions contain an anti-drain back valve to prevent the engine from operating without oil pressure for the period of time after start up. This valve is usually in the form of a rubber gasket, which is visible through the inlet holes of the filter, and allows the flow of oil through the filter in the correct direction. When the engine is shut down, the anti-drain back valve prevents the oil in the filter from draining back to the crankcase.

Technical Service Bulletin 83-2R2

Under some conditions the warning light may fluctuate when the engine is running. This usually happens when the vehicle is going around a corner or is on a relatively steep hill. If oil pressure fluctuation occurs under these conditions, it is because the oil level is low and the oil pump strainer is no longer fully submerged in the oil. The oil level should be immediately filled to the proper level.

In summary, the oil pressure warning device provides vital information to the driver. If there is an indication of low or no oil pressure when the engine is running, it should be shut off immediately and the cause investigated.

Warranty Information

Manufacturer's Warranties

Consumer purchasers of automotive filters are sometimes told by an automotive dealer's service writer or mechanic that a brand of replacement filter cannot be used in the consumer's vehicle during the warranty period. The claim is made that use of the brand will "void the warranty" with the statement or implication that only original equipment brand of filters may be used. This, of course, tends to cast doubt on the quality of the replacement filter.

That claim is simply not true. If the consumer asks for the statement in writing, he will not receive it. Nevertheless, the consumer may feel uneasy about using replacement filters that are not original equipment. With the large number of do-it-yourselfers who prefer to install their own filters, this misleading claim should be corrected.

Under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act and general principals of the Federal Trade Commission Act, a manufacturer may not require the use of any brand of filter (or any other article) unless the manufacturer provides the item free of charge under the terms of the warranty.

So, if the consumer is told that only the original equipment filter will not void the warranty, he should request that the OE filter be supplied free of charge. If he is charged for the filter, the manufacturer will be violating the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act or other applicable law.

By providing this information to consumers, the AFMC can help combat the erroneous claim that a brand of replacement filter other than original equipment will "void the warranty".

It should be noted that the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act is a federal law that applies to consumer products. The Federal Trade Commission has authority to enforce the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, including obtaining injunctions and orders containing affirmative relief. In addition, a consumer can bring suit under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act.

CARQUEST premium filters

Limited Warranty

New car and equipment warranties remain in effect when CARQUEST filters are used.

CARQUEST Filters warrants each CARQUEST filter to be free from defects in material and workmanship during the period of service life recommended by the engine or equipment manufacturer. This warranty does not apply if the filter has been improperly installed, abused, damaged, used in competitive racing or on modified high performance engines or if used in any aircraft or aviation application.

If your CARQUEST filter is found to be defective in material or workmanship during the period of service life recommended by the ending or equipment manufacturer, CARQUEST Filters will replace the defective filter with another CARQUEST filter. In addition, CARQUEST Filters will reimburse you for the reasonable costs of the parts and labor required to repair your engine or equipment to the extent the damage was solely attributable to a defect in your CARQUEST filter.

In order to obtain engine or equipment repairs under this warranty, the customer must, within 30 days after discovery of damage, submit a claim to any CARQUEST representative, our CARQUEST distributor, or directly to the address below. The customer must also allow the CARQUEST Technical Service Department to examine the filter and, if required, the engine or equipment, to determine the extent of damage and whether it was caused by a defective CARQUEST filter. The filter must be returned in its original, undamaged condition to the CARQUEST Technical Service Department for examination.

This warranty is exclusive of any other warranty, express or implied. CARQUEST FILTERS EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMS, WITHOUT LIMITATION, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTIBILITY AND OF FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. The foregoing states CARQUEST Filters entire and exclusive liability and the buyer's exclusive and sole remedy for any damages or claim made in connection with the sale of a CARQUEST filter. CARQUEST Filters shall in no event be liable for any special, incidental, or consequential damages whatsoever, except those specifically provided for in this warranty.

Some states do not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental or consequential damages, so the above limitations or exclusion may not apply to you.

This warranty gives you specific legal rights and you may also have other rights, which vary from state to state.
